KINDERHOOK MAN IS INJURED IN CRASH

STATE CLOSES CASE AGAINST BLONDE IRENE

District Attorney Paints Picture of Holdup and Shooting of Paul.

BULLETIN

COURTROOM, NEW CASTLE, PA., Mar. 21— The sensational charge that Private Ernest Moore fired the shot that killed Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol, was made here today by Thomas D. Dielzy, chief of defense counsel for Irene Schroder on trial for murder.

COURTROOM, NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 21.—Amid a strange silence in this little courtroom that has rocked with laughter, District Attorney John S. Powers today began his closing argument in support of the commonwealth's contention that Irene Shrader, the blonde gunwoman, merits the electric chair for the killing of Corporal Brady Paul of the state highway patrol.

Powers' address was delayed for a full hour this morning while opposing counsel huddled in a sidebar conference with Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand and discussed the legal points to be brought out in the arguments.

There was no trace of oratorical flare in Powers' argument. He summed up in legal fashion that almost crackled in its dryness.

Powers pleaded with the jury of ten men and two women to exercise "fairness and intellectual honesty" in arriving at their decision on the penalty to be meted out to Irene for the "wicked and vicious" murder of Corporal Paul.

SLUMPS IN CHAIR

Irene slumped defectedly in her seat as Powers proceeded. Despite the hot and stuffy atmosphere, she pulled her sport cloth coat closely about her and kept her black straw hat clamped closely about her ears.

Powers struck at the "irresistible impulse to rob" defense set up for Irene. He analyzed the crimes committeed, called the jury's attention to the alleged deliberate and careful planning that preceded the holdups and pointed out that Irene pleaded a robbery mania, through which only impulsive robbery can occur.

"The commonwealth has laid before you a multitude of detailed facts," Powers went on. "We have sought to lead our minds to realize the nature and greatness of this crime. We have sought to cast the weight of logic and truth into the intelligent and conscientious formation of a resolve on your part to do your duty."

Powers outlined the events leading up to the tragedy, called attention to the chain of evidence given by the commonwealth to connect Irene and Glenn Dague with the Butler, Pa., chain store holdup and then softened his voice as he drew a word picture of the actual killing.

TELLS STORY

"Let me lay before you the final scene of this tragic story," the district attorney said. "And yet, no word of mine can quite reveal what awful decision swept the dead boy from this world to the dim beyond. How piercing must have been Brady Paul's realization of what death meant, as he lay there in the road.

"Surely, no one felt the loss of life more than Brady Paul. Young, handsome and vigorous, the life blood welling in his veins like a mighty river, he went to the scene of this killing that morning.

"How different his return!"

MERCHANTS' PROGRAM WINS BROTHERHOOD DECISION; MEN TO FURNISH HOSPITAL WARD

The fifth and last number of the contest extraordinary of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood was given last evening in the parish house in E. Mound-st.

After the usual business session, Frank Gordon and his comittee of nine served a buffet lunch of baked ham sandwiches, Swiss cheese sandwiches, sour and sweet pickles and coffee.

The Brotherhood voted to furnish the three-bed ward in the new Berger Hospital at a cost of $300.

The first number of this series of five entertainments was given by the professional men of the organization, under the direction of Rev. G. J. Troutman, D. D.; the second by the musicians under the leadership of E. C. Ebert; the third by the automobile and garage men, with R. L. Brehmer in charge; the fourth by the farmers, with Charles Walters directing.

The fifth and final program was given by the merchants, under the command of J. D. Hummel.

The judging of this contest was done by Messrs. C. O. Leist, L. T. Shaner, J. W. Johnson, Prof. W. M. Reid and Hon. Walter J. Marion and was based upon information, entertainment, uniqueness, presentation and effectiveness, twenty percent for each being the basis for judging.

The decision of the judges was as follows: Dr. Troutman 281 points; E. C. Ebert 281½, R. L. Brehmer 283, Charles Walters 287 and J. D. Hummel 311.

The four losing teams will banquet not only Hummel's team, but the entire brotherhood and judges at the next session on April 3, at which time the entertainment will be in charge of Rev. G. L. Troutman and will be in the nature of a review of the past five meetings.

The opener of the last evenings program was a rousing number by the Brotherhood chorus, "She'll be Comin' Round the Mountain";

This was followed by an exceptionally interesting talk on "Circleville Business—Yesterday and Day," by W. E. Crist.

Then the chorus again appeared on the scene, singing "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," responding to a generous encore.

Charles L. Mack was at his best and scored highly in his interesting and instructive talk on "If the Shoe Pinches."

J. D. Hummel next sang a solo: "Golden Slippers," supported by the chorus.

J. N. Noecker was at his very best and lived up to his subject, "Hits and Home Runs," this being followed by a duet by George Himrod and W. H. Leist, "Hand Me Down My Walkin' Cane."

Edward Sensenbrenner was assigned the topic "Squibs," but deviated during the first parts of the discourse and talked on "Qualifications in business, especially bringing out the three elements, courage, originality and diplomacy.

Finally he came back to the as-

"JAKE" POISON CAUSES ALARM

Columbus Has Between 40 and 50 Cases—Cincinnati Has 65 Victims.

COLUMBUS, O., MARCH 21—With an increasing number of "Jamaica ginger" paralysis cases being reported daily, Ohio health officials today became concerned, but not unduly alarmed, over the apparent spread of the epidemic.

Between 40 and 50 cases of the strange malady, which effects the extremities of the nerves, have been reported in Columbus. About 40 victims in Mt. Vernon came under the official notice of health officials there. Cincinnati leads Ohio's list with 65 cases and Middletown persons suffering from the "ginger" paralysis numbered 20.

According to reports, there are now more than over 200 cases in Kentucky.

Health officials believe that all resulted from drinking a Jamaica ginger compound. The paralysis settles in the victims fingers and toes and then gradually numbs the forearms and legs.

Though concerned over the number of cases, state health officials seemed to be of the opinion that they could take no official action except to issue a warning against drinking any of the ginger compounds. They will, however, make an analysis of any samples of the liquid which they can obtain

TWO BANDITS GET $2,000

Holdup Columbus Bakery Employes and Flee In Stolen Automobile.

COLUMBUS, O., MARCH 21—Two bandits, who early last night, swooped down upon the offices of the Donaldson Bakery Company and escaped with $2,000 of the company's receipts for the day, after holding 10 employes at bay with revolvers, are being sought by police today.

Approximately 150 persons were working in the bakery at the time of the holdup but only a few were aware of what was occuring, until the bandits fled in a stolen automobile.

The robbers worked systematically, herding the employes of the two front offices into one room and then rifling the cashier's cage.

A citywide search by police proved futile

DOHENY JURY TO GET CASE BY NIGHTFALL

Defense Attorney Says Doheny Got Oil Lease By Submitting Best Bid.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21—E. L. Doheny obtained the lease on the Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve because he submitted the best bid and not because he wielded any undue influence over Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, told the jury today in his closing argument in the trial of the aged Californian bribery.

The contract, in fact, Hogan told the jury, was let by the navy and Fall had little to do with it.

Doheny is charged with bribing Fall with $100,000, carried from New York in the famous "Little Black Satchel." The defense contends the $100,000 was a loan "from one old friend to another."

Closing arguments were to be concluded today, and the expectation was the jury may be given the case by nightfall.

Atlee Pomerene, former Ohio Senator, Special Government Prosecutor, already has laid the groundwork for summing up of the Government's case. Today, after chief defense counsel Frank J. Hogan completes the final defense argument, begun yesterday, Owen J. Roberts will bring the case to a close with a two hour argument for the Government.

Asks Navy to Tell Why Williams Quit

LIEUT AL WILLIAMS — PLANE BUILT FOR SCHNEIDER CUP RACE

Investigation by the Senate Naval Affairs Committee into the circumstances surrounding the resignation from the service of Lieutenant Alford J. Williams, navy speed flier, particularly as to the charges that he was forced out by admirals of the old battleship school, was proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Tydings, of Maryland, a member of the committee. Many see a similarity in the resignation of "Al" Williams and that of Colonel William E. Mitchell, which aroused so much comment some time ago.

Spring Arrives In Ohio State In Name Only

Spring arrived in Ohio today—in name only.

Freezing or near freezing temperatures in nearly all parts of the Buckeye state, belied the fact that today was the first day of spring.

Thermometers slunk to the 28 degree mark early today and they are expected to topple even lower tonight, probably to 25 degrees.

Snow or sleet is predicted for the southern sections of Ohio and snow flurries may sweep that portion along Lake Erie.

A brilliant sun today made the low temperatures more bearable, but with darkness tonight, winter is expected to deliver some telling blows.

Damage to fruit trees and other plants will be negligible, weatherman W. H. Alexander, of Columbus, declared.

Consolation can be found in Alexander's predictions that this present cold wave will be the last severe snap of the season

FIRE SWEEPS YOUNGSTOWN

Blaze In Downtown District Damages Property Worth Over $70,000.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 21.—Fire of unknown origin swept the Powell block in the heart of the downtown district here today, causing damages estimated at more than $70,000.

The blaze, one of the most spectacular in the history of the city, started in a four-story store, according to firemen. Gaining rapid headway, it spread to adjoining stores in the block.

The Peoples' furniture store and a restaurant located in the block suffered heavy losses in addition to the Federal drug store where the blaze is believed to have originated.

Seven Youngstown fire companies battled the blaze for three hours before it was brought under control. No one was reported hurt during the conflagration.

Whatever the outcome of The Herald campaign may be, the winners and losers alike will derive considerable benefit from the campaign. It will show the loyalty of friends and requisites of individuals. However there appears to be no quitters entered in this campaign and to date the friends of candidates have been highly loyal. Many volunteer coupons are sent in, indicating that many people are interested and also that there are a great many people available to solicit. You candidates should see that no friends or relatives remain unacquainted with the situation.

No one has presumed to make any predictions so far but all candidates realize that the only way is to get out and hustle incessantly. Getting down to business, it is really surprising to see what can be accomplished. Systematic work is the winning ticket.

Race A Tossup

However, the time to step out in front is now, while the going is good. Why not decide the race now by a few days of determined effort? No one is so far that the lead could not be wiped out by work. The race is a toss-up to date.

The rivalry between the candidates in general increases as the campaign progresses. There are several hustlers in this campaign, who believe in having a big bunch of bonus votes in reserve for the finish. And they are using the right method to secure them.

They are taking advantage of the extra vote offers and running their scores up among the thousands.

Every day will count heavily from now on see that you don't waste your time. Don't let a single day go by without getting at least five subscriptions. Time right now is the most valuable thing in the world. The campaign is half over and the prizes are yet to be won by the workers. No one has them "cinched" now and the live hustling wideawake candidate who goes after the vote offer this week will in all probability secure the winning votes before Thursday night. Don't waste this golden opportunity. It will never come again.

No one candidate has such a start but what it could be over-

WAGON MINUS TAIL-LIGHT IS WRECK CAUSE

William Carter, Circleville Oil Employe, Hurt When Truck and Auto Collide.

Failure of a straw wagon to carry a tail light caused a serious accident on the Williamsport-pk opposite the Crites farm at 6:05 a. m. Friday when one of the Pickaway-co Livestock cooperative trucks driven by Burl Greene, this city, collided with the Graham-Paige sedan driven by William Carter of Kinderhook, an employe of the Circleville Oil Co.

As a result of the accident, Carter is at home in a critical condition suffering from injuries and Greenlee is suffering from a possible fracture of the nose.

The livestock truck was going west on the pike at a rate said to be about 40 miles an hour. The early morning was very dark, and with the rain which fell during the night, made it difficult for the driver of an automobile to see very far ahead.

Greenlee drove up behind the straw-wagon and was almost on it before he quickly turned the truck to the right and headed into the ditch in order to avoid a collision with the wagon. He was driven almost to the ditch when the Graham-Paige Carter, driving toward Circleville, crashed into the side of the truck. Greenlee was catapulted from the cab of his truck and Carter was thrown against the front of his car.

The truck struck a post at the side of the road tearing the fender. The right side of the car which was almost new, by the car was badly damaged. According to garagemen, the Graham-Paige was almost completely demolished, the front end and motor being crushed together. The car was taken to the Circleville Motors Co. garage.

When the cars collided Carter was thrown against the steering wheel of his car with such force that it is thought he may have internal injuries in his chest. He also suffered a deep gash in his forehead above the left eye. A piece of glass entered below his left knee and punctured the flesh to the bone. He extricated himself from his wrecked car but when he was approached by Donald H. Watt and Harry Briggs, who were following the livestock truck, he was in a semi-conscious condition.

He was rushed to the office of Dr. Lloyd Jones where he was given first aid. He was then taken to his home.

According to Watt and Briggs, witnesses to the accident, the driver of the straw-wagon, continued on his journey and didn't even stop to see what was going on.

The truck, driven by Greenlee, was headed for a livestock farm where cattle was to be weighed. Watt and Briggs were following the truck.

Carter was coming to Circleville to begin his daily work at the Circleville Oil Co.

The fact that Carter's car struck the truck probably saved Watt's Buick coupe from being badly damaged for had the Carter car missed the truck it would have crashed directly into the Buick.

According to Mr. Briggs, who is manager of the Livestock cooperative association, on a number of occasions accidents similar to this one have been narrowly averted because of the failure of the straw wagons to carry lights. In the early morning it is almost impossible to see very far ahead and it is an easy matter to drive into a wagon before the driver is aware what is on the road in front of him.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT TRACES SHERMAN TRUST VIOLATIONS

BY ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

WASHINGTON Mar. 21—The Radio Corporation of America will furnish the department of justice with a list of all patents held on radio equipment, in connection with the investigation of that company as to alleged violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust act, it was learned today.

Sometime ago the Couzens senatorial committee asked John Lord O'Brien, assistant to the Attorney General in charge of the anti-trust matters, to submit a report as to what action was intended. At that time O'Brien expected to furnish the committee the status of the case within thirty days.

Officials indicated it would require sometime to get a check on all the radio patents held by the radio corporation and that this might cause a new delay in the report to the committee. It was explained there are many factors involved in the probe of the company and affiliated corporations with a wide field to cover, and that progress necessarily has been limited.

One of the principal factors involved is the holding of large numbers of patents on radio equipment, through which it has been claimed a virtual monopoly has been set up.

Another phase of the general radio investigation has been halted temporarily by the federal trade commission pending the outcome of federal court action involving the right of the radio corporation to require receiver manufacturers using RCA patent rights to initially equip their sets with RCA vacuum tubes.

The trade commission case was started about a year ago but testimony will not be taken until the court suit is terminated. The commission overruled a motion to dismiss.

Arthur B. Lord, receiver for the Deforrest corporation, obtained an injunction in the federal court of Delaware to prevent the RCA from enforcing its tube contract. The case went to the supreme court but is now back in the circuit court of appeals for further hearing It is to be settled eventually by the supreme court.

CAMPAIGN

come in a few short hours of real hard, systematic work. Don't cover the same ground twice if you can help it Lay out your territory and see that when the campaign is over you will have covered every inch of ground in your immediate vicinity and then skip over somewhere else and make the dust fly. Keep your mind everlastingly on the one idea "—New Subscriptions"— that is the only thing under the sun that will win. This week's offer shows a liberal number of extra votes for a small amount of new subscriptions. Twety-five new subscribers is not beyond the reach of every candidate in the campaign if he goes right out after new subscriptions and doesn't slow up until he has secured them. Make every effort to get into the triple class.

New Offer Explained

Beginning with Friday March 21, and ending Thursday, March 27, new subscriptions will count as follows: On the first Eight New Subscriptions you secure, I will double the regular number of votes. Every one after the first eight will count TRIPPLE or three times the regular scale. If any one contestant secures a string of 25 new subscribers between the above mentioned dates, the entire 25 will be counted tripple. This means simply this: If you get only 6 or 7 new subscribers, you will receive no extra votes, but if you get 8 new ones, then the regular scale will be doubled. Ten new ones would mean double votes on 8 and tripple on 2, etc. If you get a string of 25 new ones, they would count just three times the regular scale This offer, if figured out, is smaller than last week or any previous week, and it is larger than will ever be given again. Now is your time to hustle for the new ones.

Kroger STORES

PROFESSOR LAUDS EFFICIENCY

A questionnaire asking their opinion of chain stores was sent to 45 prominent university professors; 43 of them answered. Every one of the 43 replied that he considered the chain store to the interest of the public.

E. G. Rasmussen, Instructor in Marketing, Vanderbilt University, cites the efficiency of the chain-store method. He says:

"Economies are brought about largely through large-scale buying. . . . Its advantage is due to large-scale economies and efficiency in management."

Professor Rasmussen thus emphasizes the reasons the chain-store system is a benefit.

Kroger Stores employ these principles in their operation—large-scale buying, quick handling and efficient management. These economies are passed on to the public.

PERFECT ATTENDANCE

It is not always that the distinction of perfect attendance to meetings of an organization is possible over a period of years and when eight years pass without a miss, honor should come to the men who have attained this goal. At the Rotary club meeting Thursday noon, R. L Brehmer and Harry Stevenson were given attendance buttons for having eight years of 100% attendance. This record is unusual for it is not always that one is fortunate enough to have perfect health for this long a period which makes it possible to be at every meeting or to be able to attend a meeting out of town, when the home club session is missed. But they have done this thing for eight long years and they are no doubt justly proud to display the Rotary emblem with the figure eight on it

The perfect attendance of these two men only shows what can be done, and it also shows the interest they have in the organization to which they belong This same interest has always been shown in civic activities and they can always be depended upon and always have been on the job Both of them have been President of the Chamber of Commerce, both of them have been President of the Rotary Club, both of them are on the Hospital Commission and both of them work wherever there is a task to be done Men like these are worth having in a community and Circleville should be proud of such men and the Rotary Club should be proud that men of their type meet with them every Thursday. We congratulate them in their eight years of attendance and trust that good health will permit this record to continue unbroken.

VAST BUILDING PLANS

This begins to look like a big building year, whatever else it may bring forth. Three states in a row—New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio—are planning to spend more than $1,000,000,000 in construction and maintenance of state, county and municipal works. Expenditures by other states and the federal government are expected to bring the total up to perhaps $3,500,000,000. The public utilities, including the railroad and telegraph companies, will add as much to the pot, making a total fund of 7,000,000 000, according to the Secretary of Commerce

The amount of private construction still is uncertain But the release of vast funds for public construction is already making itself felt, and with the known shortage of housing in this country, and the higher quality of homes demanded, it is reasonable to expect about the usual addition from that sorce. Altogether, then, it need surprise no one if the total building for 1930 runs well over $10,000,000,000.

If prosperity maokes building, building also makes prosperity In three months things may be humming.

BITTER SWEET

"MASTER of MONEY"
BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XL

SHE WATCHED while the motley crowd loaded themselves into the lorries and heard Alan barking orders at the junior foreman There was nothing for her to do but just watch Even the need for her drudgery in the office had passed He had now no need of her at all.

They stood together while the lorries passed them one by one At the side of the yard an ordinary touring car containing Alan's baggage.

"I'll give them half an hour's start," he said "I've just time for a snack, if you feel like it?"

They went to an adjoining cafe and Alan gave her a monologue about the convoys. He seemed wholly unconscious of the fact that were parting

"By jove!" he exclaimed suddenly I forgot to write to Roger about those shares. I'll just dash into the office before I go and do it."

She went to the depot and waited for him.

"All correct!" he said when he joined her "I've posted it. Now I'd better trundle along and see what sort of trouble that convoy has got into." He nodded to the driver who started up the engine

"Well — good-bye, Shirley. Thanks awfully for all you've done at the office—it saved me no end of trouble but I'm afraid you overdid it a bit. Look after yourself I shall probably have to come down in a month or so and if you're still here we can meet."

"Good-bye, Alan—good luck!" she said in answer, and turned away as the car started

She went back to the house in Kalamaria and knew that it had become a house of desolation She was tired, aching in every limb

She went upstairs to her room and on the landing met the housekeeper, who asked if she wanted anything

Shirley tried to answer her, but no words came She waved the woman away, then, slamming her door and locking it, flung herself on the bed and, for the first time in her adult life burst into a passion of weeping

Shirley could find no reason for staying on in the country, that her conscience could accept In the weeks that followed, the loneliest period of her life she made for herself one excuse after another There was the excuse that she wanted to see whether Alan could carry through his plan of making the railway—and there was the excuse that he might fall ill at any time and need her Precisely how he would need her in a city that knew no lack of doctors or nurses she did not make clear to herself

Two days after he had gone she wrote him a bright, chatty letter, then found there was no point in posting it unless she went to the depot and remained for one of the drivers of the lorries to take it She put off doing this for a couple of days then having done it waited a fortnight for his reply And when it came it was not, strictly, a reply at all

"Thanks for your note," ran a pencilled scrawl "We've made a rather slow start—they're a difficult crowd to hustle—but I put them on piece work part of the road and it's working—now perfectly [illegible] getting very hot and we shall soon have to knock off [illegible] work Hope you are flourishing A"

It was that unsatisfying note which made her suspect that she was not staying on in the country merely to follow the fortunes of Macedonian Developments She could have waited indefinitely for news about how the gang was working There might be news of another kind that she could not wait for—but Shirley was not used to analyzing her own emotions.

The loneliness was not literal—and that made it the harder to endure There were plenty of invitations from the bureaucracy of the city, but such society had lost its savor Maurois was an oasis in a desert of formal conversation. By demanding her attention he brought her a certain temporary relief from her melancholy. He kept her self-respect alive by his perpetual reminder of her womanhood.

She met him almost daily but never by invitation on either side. She would meet him at the houses of the officials — and there were chance meetings when she was shopping or taking such limited exercise as the town permitted True, there was a certain systematic regularity about the chance meetings, but she failed to notice this His manner in these days suggested a scrupulous consciousness of Alan's absence. About him there was no hint of the pursuer. He was almost rigidly conventional but at the same time broad and companionable

He told her a good deal about mosquitoes and malaria—told her that it was time to buy mosquito nets, helped her choose them at an Orosdi Mpak's and gave her much sensible advice as to the fixing of them. She began to forget her suspicions of him and she was particularly anxious to show her gratitude for the help he had undoubtedly given.

* * *

By the middle of April she had written four times to Alan and received only one brief note like the first from him. She decided to write no more and wondered anxiously if he were all right, for the summer was now beginning Already in the city it was as hot as a New York August.

One evening, when she had just finished dining in the garden to escape from the heat of the house, Stavros was announced

"Ask Monsieur Stavros to come into the garden—and bring coffee for two," she ordered the housekeeper-cum-parlormaid?

But Stavros would not take coffee He was, it appeared, too agitated.

"Madame, I am agitated!" he greeted her. "It is my especial misery that I lack the power to break bad news in a fitting manner"

Shirley quickened.

"Has anything happened to—my husband?" she demanded.

"To Mr Brennaway? Indeed, no to the best of my information," said Stavros

For a moment Shirley closed her eyes The Commissioner was babbling but she was not hearing There could be no other bad news

Nevertheless there was bad news

"and, of course, you must understand that there was opposition at Athens from the beginning which I set myself to overcome. As you are aware, I was successful, but honesty compels me to admit that I was assisted by our good friend, Monsieur Maurois whose standing with the Government it would be impossible to exaggerate.

"I have written—how many dispatches in the last fortnight?—it must be a dozen—to point out the urgency, for the safety of Monsieur Brennaway and his workers, that the troops should remain But the Government will not permit the existence of the comitadji. They laugh at my plea of urgent necessity and they are forcing me to a position in which I must recall the troops."

"This is terrible, Monsieur Stavros!" said Shirley in a arm "It will mean that the work will have to be stopped."

"It is even worse than that, Madame, because I have made representations to Monsieur Brennaway also and he refuses to leave the hinterland. He is a man of courage and immense difficulty, your husband. I am told that he received my emissary with a certain scorn and my emissary reports that he has intimidated the officer in command of the troops."

"I don't think Mr. Brennaway would ever abandon work he had once started!" said Shirley wretchedly.

"That is precisely what I have feared—and that is why I have come to you, Madame," said Stavros. "When the military have been withdrawn and the comitadji arrive, he will treat them, I do not doubt, as he has treated my emissary How should an American understand the comitadji? And, believe me, Madame, the comitadji will not understand an American."

For a time Shirley was silent.

"Monsieur Stavros, I feel sure that you want to help me. Can we do nothing?"

"There is a stone that my diffidence has restrained me from turning," said Stavros. "I refer to Monsieur Maurois. If he would join me in representing to the Government that the danger is real and that it would make a bad impression upon the American Government if an American should be killed by our comitadji—it would be a simple matter But I hesitate to approach Monsieur Maurois lest my friendship for Madame and her husband——" there came the inevitable bow—— "should seem to play too large a part in the consideration of my duty."

"Then I will see Monsieur Maurois myself," she said quickly. "If it is really only a matter of getting him to confirm your statement—he has been so kind already that——"

"Madame has voiced my inmost thoughts," said Stavros. He rose to go, then added: "Did I mention that it is a matter of the utmost urgency? I shall be compelled to dispatch the order for withdrawal at midnight—unless in the meantime Monsieur Maurois can assure me of his backing."

"I will go at once," said Shirley. "But I haven't got the car here."

"My car is at the door. It would be an honor if Madame would accept the loan of it."

Shirley protested but allowed herself to be overruled.

Stavros had put the case very clearly to her—he had put it to her that unless Maurois' help were obtained at once, Alan would in all probability be killed by the comitadji In her brain was no other thought than that of getting to Monsieur Maurois as quickly as possible.

"Monsieur Maurois is a bit old-fashioned," she told herself. "I mustn't strike a jarring note by turning up in a jumper."

She hurried upstairs and changed into an informal evening frock Twenty minutes later she was being shown into Maurois' drawingroom.

"You confirm my belief in telepathy!" said Maurois, coming towards her. "For the last hour I have been trying to read but my thoughts were concentrated upon you. And now you have come."

He had never spoken to her in quite that strain before and Shirley inwardly sprang on guard.

"How charmingly you excuse an interruption, Monsieur Maurois."

"My servants should have taken your cloak," said Maurois. "Permit me!"

"Oh, but I can stay only a very few minutes," protested Shirley.

"Then, for those few minutes, at least give me the illusion that you will stay longer," said Maurois. His hands were on her cloak. Realizing this, Shirley let him take it.

DR. COPELAND SAYS—

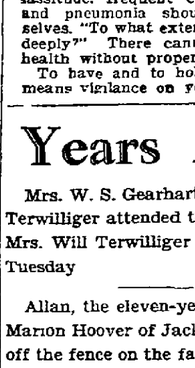
Deep Breathing

Will Help Keep You Well, Says Dr. Copeland

Good Lung Action Is Essential to Good Health Warns Authority, Telling Why and Urging That the Habit Be Started Early in Life.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

HEALTH is a natural thing. Bad health is unnatural. Most diseases are brough upon us by ourselves. They are due to our lack of knowledge of nature's laws, or to lack of common sense to act in accordance with these natural laws.



DR. COPELAND

The normal, healthy body wards off infection and disease. The wonderfully efficient methods by which the body protects itself are only now being discovered. We are beginning to understand the working of the complex glands of the body There must be proper functioning of the heart, lungs and other vital organs, to protect the healing power of Nature.

Children, the vast majority of them, are born with sound health Too many of them are allowed when young to form bad habits of one kind or another. This is a pity.

Every child should be taught deep breathing It should receive attention in the very earliest years

Good lung action is absolutely essential to good health. When you see a person whose body lacks symmetrical development around the chest, you may know it is due to lack of deep breathing

Deep breathing means that your very elastic lungs are opened wide enough to take in a large volume of air giving oxygen to the blood as you breathe. If that air is pure, then you are building up your body

If you are on a mountain top where the air is uncontaminated that is quite a different thing from being in the midst of crowds of people in the city. In the latter case, the air is defiled from germs dust and dirt and the foul air excreted from millions of persons

The blood circulates through the lungs and around the body three times in about a minute Each time the blood passes from the right side of the heart into the lungs it is dark purple in color It is saturated with the waste products of the system picked up by the blood as it passes through the body When you exhale in breathing, these waste products are expelled in air and moisture.

When you inhale and the air is drawn into the lungs oxygen is absorbed through the thin walls of the tiny blood-vessels of the lung structure and thence into the blood stream Here the impure purple blood turns to pure blood of a red color, and returns to the heart from the lungs purified for its journey around the body again It takes with it life and vigor

Now you can see how important it is to take deep breaths and to form the habit when very young

The blood stream, as it passes through the nose mouth and throat cannot help but pick up the myriad germs deposited there They are carried by the blood stream to every part of the body If you are in perfect health, the wonderful processes of Nature takes care of them in the body They are overcome there But if your bodily resistance is not good, then the weakest spot in the body is a good place for them to grow and set up disease.

Those who suffer from debility, lassitude, frequent colds, influenza and pneumonia should ask themselves, "To what extent do I breathe deeply?" There cannot be perfect health without proper breathing.

To have and to hold good health means vigilance on your part. You cannot leave the whole responsibility of health to Nature alone.

"The Woman Racket," taken from a story by Philip Dunning, author of the successful play "Broadway," and Frances Dunning, and co-starring Tom Moore and Blanche Sweet, will open Friday at the Cliftona Theatre

Metropolitan gangsters and night club life furnish the background for the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking picture, said to be the first accurate portrayal of New York's racketeering game

The "Great White Way" is here in all its artificial glamour. Dunning, with the same astuteness he used in depicting backstage vaudeville life in his stage hit, unravels a story of a night club hostess used as a "come on" by an unscrupulous gangster. It is the old story blazoned forth in metropolitan newspaper headlines almost every day, expertly adapted to the screen to make exciting dramatic entertainment

AT THE GRAND

"The Jazz Age," a thrilling drama of tomorrow's America, starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr, and Marceline Day, is the feature attraction at the Grand theatre Friday The story is based along the lines of "Our Dancing Daughters" and carries the same type of action.

The 14th chapter of "Tarzen the Tiger" is an added attraction.

Now you can protect her lovely hair!

Millions of men and women know how Danderine helps stop falling hair and dissolves the worst crust of dandruff; how easily it changes dull, lustreless, brittle hair into hair that is soft, sparkling, vigorous.

With Danderine it is so easy to "train" a child's hair; to keep it orderly, sparkling, clean. Danderine accentuates the natural curl of a child's hair. A girl's "waves" look more natural when "set" with it. And they stay in longer.

Use Danderine with children to overcome the evils of frequent washing. It puts back into hair and scalp the natural oils removed by soap and water

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It is no trouble to use. Just put a little on the brush each time the hair is arranged. That will keep the scalp healthy and encourage the growth of long, silky and abundant hair. Five million bottles used a year is proof of Danderine's effectiveness.

OHIO girl is a Prize Winner...

"LAVADA was a bottle baby and so was very delicate," says Mrs. Rose Temple, 5883 Pearl Road, Cleveland. "She seemed to have trouble with her stomach and bowels; couldn't digest her food right; was constipated.

"California Fig Syrup has changed all that; and made her a different girl. It regulated her bowels quickly, improved her appetite and digestion. She has had no trouble since; but has continued to gain until today friends say she's a regular prize winner for health."

Mothers by thousands, are praising California Fig Syrup. Physicians endorse it. A pure vegetable product; it is safe for any child. The prompt relief it brings bilious, headachy, constipated children lasts; because it helps tone and strengthen bowels and stomach. Appetite increases; digestion improves with its use! signed subject and lived up to his topic in that he directed shafts of sarcasm at all in any way interested in this contest, not even sparing the honorable judges.

This number was a scorer and undoubtedly the judges dulled their pencils on credits.

The series of entertainments was fittingly brought to a close with a rousing number by the chorus.

After the meeting was again turned back to the president, C. A. Leist, who was one of the performers of Dr. Troutman's team, offered a motion to set aside the verdict of the judges. This travestry on the entire conduct of the programs, rendition of same and on the decision of the judges, and was replete with humor.

All in all, this series of entertainments was undoubtedly the best ever put on by the Trinity Brotherhood in her twenty years history.

COLUMBUS, O., March 21.—With the report of the theft of $8,200 in stock certificates and jewelry from a northside home, police today strove to solve the robbery even though they worked without clews.

Police, who made the cursory probe, said that entrance had apparently been gained by the use of a skeleton key.

They classed the theft as a "perfect crime," saying that the burglar left no finger prints or any clews whatever.

POLICE SEARCH FOR 2 BANDITS

CLEVELAND, Mar. 20—Two bandits, one of whom is believed to be wounded seriously, were sought by police here today for a robbery and shooting escapade in which William Meltzer, 30, proprietor of a grocery store, and Jacob Myer, 34, a customer were shot last night.

The bandits escaped following the shooting with a small amount of loot.

Meltzer told police that the two bandits entered his store and demanded him and his wife to throw up their hands. During the robbery Myer walked into the store. When the two men attempted to resist, the bandits fired, one shot striking Meltzer in the shoulder and the other lodging in Myer's back.

Despite his wound, Meltzer said he grabbed one of the bandit's guns and fired, the shot, he claimed, struck one of the gunmen in the abdomen.

Officers Elected For Recreation Loop

FRANK A. LYNCH IS NAMED PRESIDENT; TEAM MANAGERS TO CONVENE NEXT TUESDAY

The Circleville recreation baseball league took real form Thursday evening at a meeting held in the C. A. C. gymnasium which was attended by 25 enthusiasts

Officers for the year were named with Frank A. Lynch being renamed president with no opposition. Other officers named were vice president, T. W. White, secretary, Russell Miller, treasurer, J R Noecker. William Avis, Harry Steinhauser and Sep Mceller were elected an advisory board to take up all questions for discussion which might come up during the season.

Joe Glitt was named to draw up a league schedule

No definite plans for opening the league were made at this meeting but a meeting of the managers of the teams which will be in the league was called for next Tuesday evening at the Coca Cola shop at 7:30 where new rules will be drafted where umpires will be named and where all the necessary arrangements for making this years league the best yet will be ironed out

Several changes in rules were discussed at Thursday's meeting, one question bringing much discussion. That is the changing the number of men on the team from 10 to nine Several players on the different teams voiced their opinion that nine should be the number while others held to the idea that 10 should be permitted. This question along with the matter of eliminating bunting, of moving the pitcher's box back, of four balls constituting a free passage to first base, of foul strike counting whether caught or not, and several other matters which need revision will be brought up at the manager's meeting

Only two teams that were in the league last year are not reentering They are the Ohio Utilities and the Circleville Merchants

Weaver and Son signified their intention of having a team in the loop although they had no representative at the Thursday meeting. The Modern Woodmen also asked a berth in the league.

The Coca Colas, last year's champs, will be back in the fight, as will the Gordon Tires replacing the C A C Dopgy Ward promises a fast array as do the Motor Transport the Lutheran Brotherhood and Pettit Tires.

SHIP READY TO TRY FOR RECORD

SOUTHHAMPTON, ENGLAND, MARCH 20— The 50,000 ton north German Lloyd Liner Europa, Germany's latest bid for speed mastery of the seas, arrived here today from Bremerhaven on her maiden trip across the Atlantic.

The Europa took sixteen hours and eight minutes to negotiate the 409 miles from the German port to Southhampton. This was two hours better than the mark set by her sister-ship, the Bremen, present holder of the Atlantic speed record. The Bremen, however, had encountered fog during the entire journey.

After taking on additional passengers, the Europa left for Cherbourg, her last port of call before heading westward in an effort to break the Trans-Atlantic record of four days, 17 hours and 24 minutes set by the Bremen.

Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Lilly spent Thursday afternoon in Columbus.

STATE HEALTH INSPECTOR REPORTS CONDITIONS HERE

An inspection conducted by James J Martin, state food and dairy inspector, shows that conditions from a sanitary standpoint in Circleville are greatly improved especially in milk producing places. Careful attention was given during his tour to weights. No violation could be found although the public is urged to watch their weights in buying and to report to either the city service director or the county auditor.

Merchants have been notified handling food products to keep their back premises cleaned at all times and to keep all unwrapped goods under cover which protects them from dust and other contamination.

The inspector noticed in several places where foods were served that the buyer was made to believe the qualities were of the best, such as beef liver for calf's liver, cream with coffee which as light cream under 18 percent butter-fat; maple syrup which was a compound of sugar and other ingredients

Persons suffering from any kind of disease are not permitted to be employed where foods are handled prepared, served or sold.

Any violators of these rules should be reported to the city health commissioner, L. E. Miller, who will take prompt action.

Inspection in Circleville and Pickaway-co has been going on for the past three months under the supervision of O J. Bailey, chief of the division of foods and dairies of the department of agriculture.

CHICKEN HATCHERY BECOMES MODERN

Cromans Poultry Farm and Hatchery was started four years ago with 56 hens, a small temporary laying house and one small incubator When we paid it a visit recently we find that it has grown modestly to a large modern Ohio type laying house, 25 by 132 feet where 1000 hens are kept busy shelling out large white eggs used for his own hatchery and that go to a retail trade in Columbus.

Our visit was on Tuesday which happened to be hatching day and nearly 3000 chicks had been taken from the mammoth electric incubator that day and were a dandy bunch full of pep and vitality, ready for their owners to call for them.

As some people prefer to buy them two weeks old, they have also a starting room equipped with starting batteries and forced draft heating equipment, where 3600 chicks can be started at one time. Mr. Croman tells us that he has built up his plant from the proceeds of his flocks and all we think that it is worth while for any one who is interested in poultry to pay them a visit.

Miss Viola Heistre, of Amanda, reported to local police that her Chevrolet car had been stolen from its parking place in that village. The car is a 1928 model, colored green, and bearing license tag 335,569

Why Fat Men Stay Fat

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99% of the men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or "pep" to keep it off. Lost all interest in my healthy activity and just lazed around, accumulating the old pounds until I got that "Kruschen feeling."

Start taking Kruschen Salts — that's the common-sense way to reduce, but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do— they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and fireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

As a result instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition

Then watch the pounds slideoff! Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot or cold water tomorrow morning and every morning— and if they don't change your whole idea about reducing, go back and get the small price you paid for them. Get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts—lasts 4 weeks—at Hamilton & Ryan's or any progressive druggist anywhere in the world. It's the little daily dose that does it.—Adv.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets. 10c.

"KONJOLA ONLY MEDICINE THAT WON FOR ME"

Modern Remedy Brings Quick End To Stomach and Kidney Ailments.

MR. C. L. GERRARD.

"Konjola is the only medicine that won for me," said Mr. C. L. Gerrard, 2908 East Second street, Davton. "For a long time I suffered from a combination of ailments which was most serious in my stomach and often wild heart-palpitations followed every meal. Finally rheumatism attacked my joints which became stiff and sore. Weak kidneys and frequent bladder actions followed by severe backaches added to my misery.

"It is difficult to realize all the benefits that Konjola brought me in just a short time. My ailments left me one by one. I eat what I wish today without any stomach pain or discomfort from bloating. The pains of rheumatism have gone. My kidneys function as they should the bladder have disappeared and my bladder is normal. My nerves and general health have improved wonderfully and I am well and happy for the first time in years."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

CHEVROLET

Chevrolet announces A NEW SERVICE POLICY

The Chevrolet Motor Company and its nation-wide dealer organization are pleased to announce a new and broader service policy—one of the most liberal ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

Put into force as a written and signed agreement given to the purchaser by the Chevrolet dealer when the car is delivered—it offers the following provisions:

1 Every Chevrolet owner receives his car from the dealer in perfect condition—thoroughly lubricated, properly adjusted, and ready to operate with maximum efficiency from the very first mile of ownership.

2 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection and adjustment of his car at the end of the first 500 miles of usage.

3 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free inspection of his car every 1000 miles thereafter, so long as the car is in operation.

4 Every Chevrolet owner is entitled to free replacement of any part which may prove defective in workmanship or material, within the terms of Chevrolet's standard warranty. This includes both parts and labor.

5 Provision number 4 will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States. As a result, the Chevrolet owner may travel to any part of the country, with assurance that the guarantee on materials and workmanship will remain in force.

This new policy constitutes definite proof of Chevrolet's high quality—for such liberal provisions could only be made in connection with a car built of fine materials to exacting standards of workmanship.

Back of this policy, and assuring its successful operation, is one of the most complete and efficient service organizations in the world.

There are more than 10,000 Authorized Chevrolet Dealer Service Stations in the United States alone. Each employs skilled mechanics thoroughly trained at Chevrolet Service Schools. Each has specially designed tools and machinery developed exclusively for Chevrolet service work. And each has on hand, at all times, an adequate stock of genuine Chevrolet replacement parts.

As a result, Chevrolet's flat-rate charges, including both parts and labor, are the lowest in the industry on many service operations!

In considering the purchase of a low-priced automobile, think what this service means—in terms of lasting satisfaction, as well as in increased economy.

CIRCLEVILLE

Circleville is becoming continually a better city in which to live, rear your families, and cast your fortunes. We are about to open a splendid hospital which will be the equal of any similar institution maintained in any city commensurate with our size. The recreational facilities of the community have been augmented very considerably within the past few years. Although our city has never laid extravagant claims to industrial prowess, Circleville industries are in a flourishing state, and due to the establishment of some new industries and the gradual expansion of some of the older companies, we are standing on the threshold of a very satisfactory industrial era.

We present, briefly, the record of two business institutions who, closely co-operating with each other for a quarter of a century in serving the best retail merchandising and consumer interests of this community, have played an important part in its progress.

The Winorr Canning Company

The Winorr Canning Company was first established in 1903 as a partnership existing between Pressing & Orr, merchandise brokers of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Winters and Prophet of Mt. Morris, New York, canners of a general line of canned vegetables.

The original plant at Circleville was first built for the purpose of packing "Winorr Kerneld Corn," a product which was packed under exclusive patent rights. A few years following the formation of the partnership, the business was incorporated under the title of The Pressing & Orr Company. The late Samuel B. Orr became president of the new company, remaining at its head until 1912, when a dissolution of The Pressing & Orr Company was effected, and under the direction of Mr. Orr, the business was reincorporated under its present title.

The Company now operates canneries at Circleville, Williamsport, Stoutsville and Bainbridge, Ohio packing a general line of canned vegetables in all standard sized containers under all commercial grades, with the emphasis on Fancy quality of the highest type obtainable. The Company's line include 148 different numbers. The products of these plants are distributed regularly in thirty states of the Union, as well as through some well established foreign channels.

W. J. Weaver & Son

The firm of W. J. Weaver & Son was founded in 1886 by W. J. Weaver and F. M. Schulze which continued until 1898, when F. M. Schulze retired and his interest was purchased by Chas. F. Weaver who became active head of the firm and continued as such until the time of his death in October 1929.

Mr. W. J. Weaver was born in a log house situated in Walnut Tp., Pickaway County, Ohio ninety two years ago. The house in which he was born is still standing and is owned by Mrs. Mary Pontius of this city. Mr. Weaver has been prominently identified with the social, religious and business interests of this city and county all his life. He was a school teacher, country merchant, a bank president and business man. It is claimed that he is the oldest living Mason in the state of Ohio at the present time.

The firm of W. J. Weaver & Son is composed of W. J. Weaver and Hattie R. Weaver, widow of Chas. F. Weaver. It is strictly an independent and home-owned concern.

Fourty-four years of continuous service should be sufficient evidence of the merit and worth of this institution as a community necessity and asset. Realizing the importance of cooperation among home industries this firm has distributed the high grade products of the Winorr Canning Co. for the past twenty-five years.

Pickaway County ranks at the top of the list in the character of its agricultural personnel, progressiveness of farming methods, and soil fertility. You can travel from coast to coast and not find a section more ideally adapted to the growing of vegetables than our own Scioto Valley. For these reasons, vegetables canned here have merited Circleville a top place in the list of the great canning centers of this country.

It is Winorr's job to co-operate with Nature to render available to you the succulent vegetables of this section when they are unobtainable fresh from your garden, and do it in a way that the maximum of their fresh goodness is retained without in any way impairing their dietic and nutritive value.

If you are not a regular user of Winorr products, we suggest that you try a few of the choice varieties that are obtainable in any of the following retail stores and see for yourself just how wonderfully good these vegetables are.
